THE WORLD COURT AND U. S. STRANGERS

AMERICA NON PERSONA GRATA. IN THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

England Tells Us Where To Head In—You Can Stick Around But You Can't Come In As Long As You Demand Your Senate Reservations To Pact of Adherence—Glee Voiced In Congress Halls Over Decision—John Bull Hailed As Savior of America.

Great Britain and two other Powers rejected America's terms for entering the World Court, in notes received by the state department Wednesday at Washington. Official announcement of this followed a few hours after a brief debate in the senate on the Trammel resolution, which would have withdrawn the country's proposal to enter even with the reservations attached last year by the senate.

Curiously enough, the senate refused to take up the resolution of Senator Park, of Florida, Democrat, not because of its merit or lack of it, but because most senators considered it to be a waste of time. Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, arch foe of the court, for instance, voted against it, sure that "Great Britain would save America" by refusing to accept the senate reservations. The vote against taking it up was 59 to 10.

President Coolidge made it clear in his Kansas City speech that if the powers did not accept the reservation which the senate had attached to American entry, that would be an end to the matter.

Official Washington Wednesday night regards all possibility of America ever entering the court to be ended definitely.

In the senate late Wednesday, when word of the official notes had been received, there was general satisfaction. There have been a number of changes of heart since the senate voted to approve American entry with strong reservations.

Many opponents of the court who did not like to take an open position against it worked to strengthen those reservations.

Several became fearful afterward that they had not made them strong enough, their real object being to make them so drastic that the powers would not accept them.

Senator Trammel is one of those who voted for the court, with reservations and repented. He obtained a lot of publicity for his change of mind last summer by announcing that he would introduce the resolution which the senate refused to consider.

Senator Frank R. Gooding, of Idaho Republican, is another who announced his change last summer. But there is a considerable number who, if they had to vote over again, would vote to impose more drastic reservations rather than soften those which were adopted, and which have now been rejected formally by three powers.

President Coolidge is perfectly aware of this change in sentiment in the senate, and it was for that reason largely that he went as far as he did in the Kansas City speech.

Friends of the president pointed out that in that day he could make it perfectly plain to the powers how hopeless it was to bring the United States into the court on any other terms.

Even so staunch a friend of the court and for that matter of the league, as Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin, Republican, admitted Wednesday that this was the end and that the United States would have to stay out of the court.

Comments on the refusal of the Powers follow:

Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri Democrat—"It is very fortunate for us. I am glad that English statesmen recognized the absurdity of reservations which undertook to put us half way in and half way out of the court. Of course, it will now be in order for all varieties of internationalists, pink, red or yellow, to begin an agitation to induce the United States to withdraw its reservations. But the movement will not succeed. The people have awakened to the danger and are demanding a return to old-time American principles and policies."

Senator Hiram W. Johnson, of California, Republican—"It relieves us from a dangerous and embarrassing situation."

Senator George H. Moses, New Hampshire, Republican—"Let us now arise and join in three lusty cheers for John Bull, the savior of America."

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Foll announce the marriage of their daughter, Genevieve, to Mr. Glen Riggan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Riggan, of Atlanta. The ceremony was performed at Covington, Kentucky, Tuesday, February 8, 1927. The young couple will make their home at Atlanta.

JOKES AND PUNS MOST VALUABLE OF FORD ASSETS

Is Claim Made by Geo. Lindsay, President of Blair & Co. Bankers.

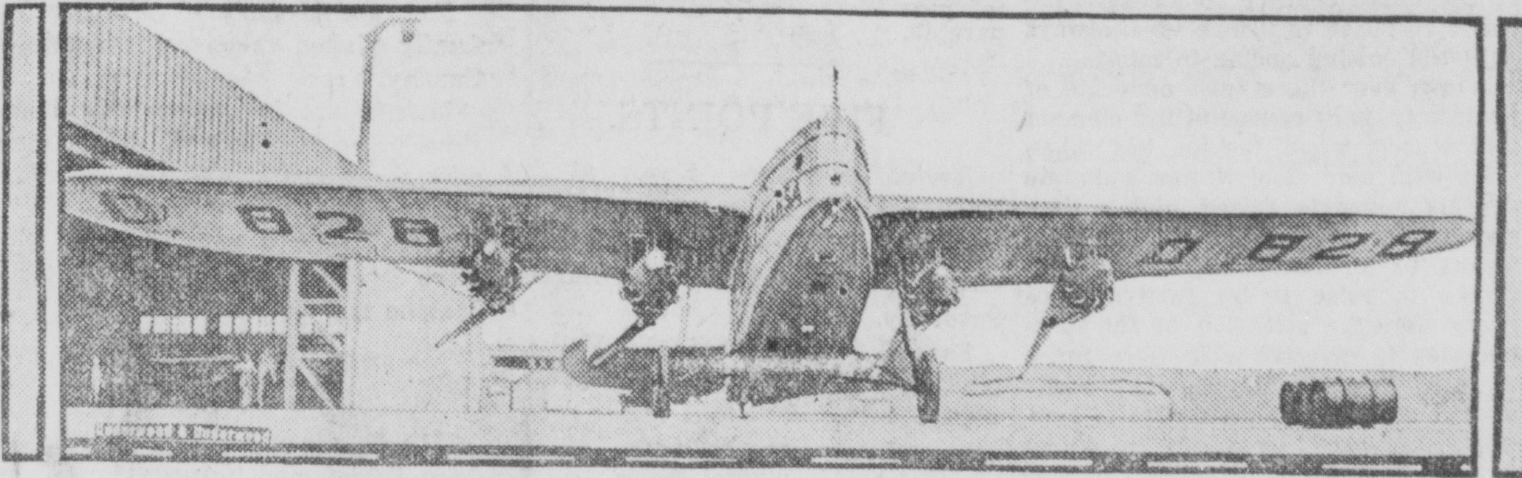

The picture presented by the Ford Motor Co., on March 1, 1913, in earnings and lucrative expansion, suggested a share valuation of between $10,000 and $12,000 in the opinion of George Lindsay, vice president of Blair & Co., bankers, New York, who was the only new witness introduced Wednesday in the tax suit of the government against former minority stockholders.

Among the most intangible assets of the Ford Co., were jokes and stage puns, which, Lindsay said, contributed materially to making the Ford car a national institution.

Germany Constructs New Type of Airplane

Here is the latest achievement in airplane design of German engineers, the new Luft-Hansa monoplane. It is featured by the motors being directly attached to the wing beams. This may be the forerunner of a huge passenger-carrying plane designed for transatlantic flights.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires
By Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Columbus—A charging bull tore up a Pennsylvania freight train north of here, according to an investigation completed Thursday by railroad officials.

The bull charged a car of dynamite. The dynamite did not explode, but the bull went to his death with three freight cars tumbled about him.

Traffic was tied up until a wrecking crew removed the bull and the debris from the right-of-way. The force of the wreck tore open many of the boxes in which the dynamite was packed, but none exploded. El Toro, the unlucky bull, which belonged to William Parker of Hayden, was buried in a nearby field.

Wooster—The Wooster college basketball team was hit hard by ineligibility and mumps. "Red" Love, star forward, was declared not eligible because of scholastic difficulties. Captain McGlashan, guard, is also out of the lineup with mumps. Love can not participate for the remainder of the semester.

Tiffin—"America will be importing food at the end of another decade unless the productivity of farms is increased," Dean Alfred Vivian of the Ohio State university college of agriculture Wednesday told Seneca county farmers. He was speaking at the Tiffin Farmers' institute.

Farmers trained from childhood on the land and using scientific methods in the nation's need today, Dean Vivian declared.

New Philadelphia—A marriage postponed for nearly two years because of a lost license was solemnized Wednesday. Russell Costa and Mary Kretovic of Dennison, in obtaining a duplicate license revealed the postponement which followed loss of the original issued February 21, 1925.

Lima—Women school teachers must remain single if they wish to carry on their duties as teachers in the public schools of Lima, it was decided at a meeting of the board of education Tuesday night.

The alleged forced resignation of Mrs. Bernice Weaver Kratzer and Mrs. Marian McGee Neville, were accepted by three members of the board. A fifth member, I. F. Judkins, who also would have noted "no" on the matter was absent from the meeting.

United States Townships

Advanced Civics says: "The origin of the townships in the United States dates to 1703. In that year the Colonial assembly of New York passed a law providing for the annual election by each township of an officer to be known as the supervisor of the township. This law further provided that the supervisors of several townships should meet at the county seat as a board of county supervisors."

PROHIBITION A GREAT BOON TO THE WORLD

Declared Henry Ford—Alcohol is Not Good For Anyone.

"Prohibition is the greatest boon in the world to the working man," Henry Ford said Wednesday upon leaving the White House in Washington D. C. where he paid his respects to President Coolidge.

"Alcohol is no good for anyone, in fact," he said, commenting on the statement of President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university that prohibition must be faced by the next Republican national convention. Ford said a survey of prohibition in his plant had proved success of the movement.

Commenting on industrial conditions thru the country, Ford said he found them "excellent."

Ford came to Washington to attend a dinner Wednesday night given by Secretary of Interior Work to the president and a group of wealthy men. He remained overnight in his private car in the railroad yards, and planned to leave Thursday afternoon to visit his friend, Thomas A. Edison, in New Jersey.

He said he had no intention of attending or testifying at the Couzens $36,000,000 tax appeal hearing, involving sale of minority Ford stock to him. Beyond his general comment on prohibition effects, Ford did not discuss the political situation created by Butler's statement. Nor did he shed any light on recent estimates that he is a billionaire—or more.

Ford observed he found the president in "excellent health," tho he seemed a little stouter than when Ford saw him last, about two years ago.

MACHINE GUN GIVEN PRISONER FOR PROTECTION

Charley Birger, the machine gun gang leader who is charged with murdering Mayor Joe Adams of West City early Thursday was brought from the Saline county jail at Marion, Illinois to the Williamson county jail under a heavy guard.

He will be taken to the Jefferson county jail later to a habeas corpus hearing which would prevent his being taken to Franklin county to answer the murder charge.

Birger Wednesday, with a machine gun laid across his knees, defied Franklin county authorities to take him from the Saline county jail. He had been given the machine gun as protection against any mob that might attempt to harm him.

A little nonsense now and then will undo the best of men.

THE SWEARING OF WASHINGTON WAS REFINED

Gabriel Wells paid $425 for an original manuscript of an address by President Harding at a sale of manuscripts in New York City Wednesday.

The address was delivered before the Ohio legislature and was on Abraham Lincoln.

Harding commented in the address that the average man felt closer to Washington, perhaps, than to Lincoln because of Washington's "refined swearing."

Another Harding manuscript, of a speech paying tribute to Mark Hanna, also before the Ohio legislature, was sold to James Lawrence for $300. It was written in lead pencil.

PLAY CENSOR

Winthrop Ames, well-known actor, who has been named by theatrical producers as chairman of a committee to clean up those plays in New York not fit to be seen. The plays are to be toned down or closed altogether if there is too much sex, profanity, vulgarity or nudity.

Nobility in Adversity

A noble heart, like the sun, showeth its greatest countenance in its lowest estate.—Sir P. Sidney.

PERMANENT REGISTRATION IS DEMANDED

Voters Losing Faith in the Political Parties and Platforms.

An increasing lack of confidence in the platform pledges and promises of political parties is responsible for the lethargy of Ohio voters, Senator Paul Herbert, Republican, of Franklin county, told members of the joint senate and house elections committee during a public hearing on the Chappellear election bill.

Herbert scolded the members of his party for their apparent lack of interest in the matter of permanent registration after the Republican party platform had declared it essential.

He called attention to the fact that platforms of both political parties pledged support to the idea of permanent registration.

Permanent registration was the key note of the hearing and that feature of the bill was stressed more than any other.

Mayo Fesler, representing the Cleveland Citizen's league, advocated the inclusion of permanent registration in the bill and called attention to the increasing cost of elections under the present system.

He called attention to a comparison of the annual registration used in Ohio with the permanent plan in effect in Milwaukee.

It cost 49 cents to register a voter in Cleveland and but 12 cents to do the same thing in Milwaukee, Fesler declared. Election costs in Ohio have increased from $1,491,000 in 1916 to $2,825,923 in 1924.

The cost per vote ranged from 65 cents in Ashland county to $2.21 in Lucas county, due largely, he said, to the large number of precincts and the frequent registration.

Fesler suggested that the maximum number of voters to a precinct be made 400 instead of 300 as provided in Chappellear's bill, in order to reduce the number of precincts and the salaries of officials.

Agnes Hilton of Cincinnati, representing the Ohio League of Women Voters, told the committee that the women were ardently in favor of permanent registration.

HEART TROUBLE CAUSES DEATH MRS. S. SLAGLE

At Her Home Near Yellow Bud Last Tuesday Funeral Was Held Thursday.

Mrs. Vermina Gartner Slager, wife of Schuyler Slager, passed away at her home in Yellowbud, Union township, Ross county, Tuesday afternoon February 8, after an illness of one year due to dropsy and heart trouble.

Mrs. Slager was born in Springfield township, Ross county on July 4, 1868, the daughter of Adam and Elizabeth Schmidt Gartner. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Miss Elizabeth Slager, at home and four sisters Mrs. Elizabeth Quick, Green township; Mrs. Mary Ginter, Scioto township; Mrs. Catherine Wilhelm, Deerfield township and Mrs. Lydia Disque, St. Joe, Missouri.

Mrs. Slager was a member of St. John's Evangelical church. Funeral services were held at the Springbank church, Thursday afternoon at two o'clock with interment in the Springbank cemetery. Rev W. D. Rose, officiated.

PENALIZING THE SMALL STOCKHOLDER

Measuring the effects of the corporation tax, which alone remains at the high war level, the Committee on Taxation of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States finds, in a report on the subject, that the small stockholder is made to bear a large part of the burden.

"In 1924, the latest year for which detailed statistics are available," the committee states, "the dividends reported by individual taxpayers paying on $10,000 or less of income amounted to $925,000,000. To distribute this amount of dividend required profits of not less than $1,057,000,000, on which $132,000,000 in corporation taxes would be paid.

"The maximum tax on the same profits had they been taxed to the same individuals would have been about $19,000,000, or $113,000,000 less than the corporations paid.

"This difference is almost exactly 150 per cent of the total taxes paid directly to the federal government by all individuals paying on incomes of $10,000 or less on the entire income from all sources. With a higher corporation rate, the lower individual rates, and larger personal exemptions in 1926, the contrast will be even more marked."

The small stockholder pays a heavy penalty for his corporate investments.—Today's Business.

Sound Advice

"Say, Willie, how many sisters have you?"

"Three, but Hazel picked you, so don't waste any time on the twins."

Panama Tolls

Panama.—Vessels passing through the Panama canal during 1926 paid tolls the aggregate of which is second only to the record year of 1924. The total for the year just closed was $23,901,540.

HARTMAN THEATER.

Thurston, the magician, returns to the Hartman theater, Columbus, on next Monday evening, February 7, on his twenty-first annual tour for a week's engagement, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. He brings with him this season the most elaborate magical production he has ever offered to local theatergoers. For the first time in the history of magic the real East Indian rope trick will be presented on a fully lighted theater stage. The Hindu rope trick is the most talked of illusion in all magic. This is the first time it has ever been presented outside the guarded purlieus of the Yogi sects of the Himalaya mountains in India.

Mr. Thurston has been for many years a student and investigator of Hindu magic. He has delved deep into the esoteric lore of that mysterious land. For several months he lived with a band of high class Yogi magicians in the fastnesses of the Himalayas, near Darjeeling, India, and it was while in that occult company that he conceived the idea of translating the famous rope trick from its native heath, so to say, to the theater stage. For more than a decade he has worked and experimented on this illusion and it was only a few short weeks ago that his dream was realized and the seeming miracle perfected for presentation before the public. And, now for the first time Columbus audiences will see a native Hindu boy actually climbing a rope on a brilliantly lighted theater stage. A rope tossed into the air by a swarthy, turbaned Yogi. A rope swinging in mid-air like Mohamet's casket at Mecca. Up, up the boy will climb. As he nears the top, while yet in full view of all the spectators in the spotlight, and while the beams of spotlights are playing all about him, he will vanish.

In addition to the "Rope Trick" this season's program is complete with an abundance of new mysteries. Thurston claims that it is the best and most entertaining program that he has ever presented. Among the many illusions are "Buried Alive," an Oriental mystery, "Broadcasting a Woman," "The Vanishing Horse and Rider," "The Human Cannon Ball," "Crushing a Woman," "The Great Hindu Basket Trick," "The Vanishing Donkey," "The Elastic Lady," "The Mystic Follies" and "The Phantom Princess" who floats out over the stage into the orchestra, then vanishing like a cloud in thin air. In all there are one hundred baffling mysteries. Thurston's company consists of thirty-five people, including many beautiful girls, and three 60 ft. baggage cars are needed to transport the equipment.

Colorful Duds in Paris' Mode List

Ideas Introduced by Makers to Win Approval of New Spring Apparel.

Although in a general sense the same rules prevailed throughout the winter showings of the haute couture, each collection is colored according to the individual taste of its originator—sometimes those current details were stressed which were generally considered most essential, sometimes the couturier added details of his own or altered the accepted ones with a characteristic touch which marked them peculiarly his. Often, observes a Paris fashion correspondent in the Louisville Courier-Journal, these original quirks are what is known as trial themes—they represent the attempts of the haute couture to measure the lady's response to a new idea, always with the coming spring in mind.

Jenny, ever the staunch advocate of femininity, is of course in her element this season, when fashion has taken sides with her. The winter waistline at this house is raised higher than ever before, and still seems to be a means to an end, since Jenny continues to raise it by furtive steps every time the attention of the fashionables is diverted elsewhere for a minute. The silhouette is exceedingly short and slim, and the irregular hemline falling scantily about the knees imparts a distinct impression of chic brevity.

At the house of Lucien Lelong the silhouette is short and straight, with the waistline drawn tightly across the top of the hips. Bloused effects are avoided by this lover of the slim, but boleros and the corresponding caplets are popular.

The two features of later winter fashions upon which Drecoll places most marked insistence are the unique combinations of varying fabrics, and the wide draped band binding the hips.

In every type of frock does Drecoll affect the full blouse emphasized by his wide hip band, from which the skirt falls in narrow, close lines.

Chez the intrepid Captain Molyneux the advance silhouette is a low-waisted version of the extremely short model. The straightness of line, which, in each house, is broken in a different manner, is here interrupted by the use of a jacket matching the skirt, or in some cases contrasting with it. Velvet is frequently employed for these jackets, which appear in both sports and afternoon frocks. A sublimated version of the jacket appears on the evening gowns in the form of yokes, which hang from the shoulders to the low waist—an attractive example being that of the lace yoke on a black velvet gown.

In fact, velvet and velveteen seem to be Captain Molyneux's favorite interpretation of the mode, both afternoon and evening. He emphasizes black conspicuously, sometimes relieved by gold embroidery or lace, and sometimes depending on the richness of the fabric for its sole decoration. He also sponsors, in unusual contrast to the regal note achieved by the velvets, floating chiffons, extremely soft both in cut and coloring. Graceful draperies distinguish these frocks, and a great deal of ostrich is seen in the same color as the gown. His evening wraps are in accordance with the velvet gowns—much velvet appears, trimmed with ermine or other rich furs.

White Broadcloth Used to Decorate This Frock

Billie Dove, featured motion picture actress, radiates charm and youth in a new black taffeta trottier frock trimmed in white broadcloth applique on bouffant sleeves and wide gathered skirt.

Chinese Coats for Evening

The Orient has not lost its influence on fashions and it is doubtful if it ever will. The latest manifestation of Chinese influence is the vogue for Chinese coats for wear with evening frocks. These are not the Mandarin coats, which never will be out of fashion because of their beautiful materials and wonderful embroidery, but the Coole coats, less extensively decorated, which usually are of white silk.

Lady Astor Depicted in Role of Autocrat

Lady Astor is particularly good to the young men of the American embassy. She has decided ideas about closing hours for parties, however, that don't always concur with the fancy of her guests. At a dinner and reception she gave for the duchess of York she shoed the majority of the people home shortly after they had dined.

The gay younger crowd, however, could not be lightly disposed of, and Lady Astor wandered from ballroom to dining room and through the halls letting fall sundry hints that as far as she was concerned the festivities were over. She told the orchestra to go home.

Presently Lady Astor announced in no uncertain tones that if the young people had any homes to go to they were to hie themselves in that direction and not to waste time.

"I am sleepy," said the American-born peeress, "and you should be if you're not." Silence, and darkness soon enveloped the Astor mansion. —Pennsylvania Hotel Register.

Lesson for February 13

MAKING OUR HOMES CHRISTIAN

LESSON TEXT—Eph. 5:22-6:4.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let us love one another for love is of God.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Child at Home.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Obedience at Home. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Unselfishness in the Home.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Make Our Homes Christian.

I. The Importance of the Home. The oldest and most important institution in the world is the family. It is the foundation stone upon which all other institutions are built. In the measure that the home is kept pure and strong will the church, society and the nation be pure and strong.

II. The Makers of the Home. The foundation upon which the home is built is marriage, and the makers of the home are the man and the woman united in holy wedlock.

III. The Obligations of the Members of the Home.

1. The husband (Eph. 5:25-32).

(1) The husband is to love his wife (v. 25). Observe—

a. The measure of this love is the love of Christ for His church. Christ loved the church so that He gave Himself for it. His was a self-emptying love. The obligation enjoined then on the husband is to manifest that self-emptying love toward his wife.

b. The purpose of this love (vv. 26, 27).

The purpose of the husband's self-emptying love is the perfection of his wife's character.

c. The ground of this love (vv. 28-30).

After all, the ground of the husband's love for his wife is his own self. He that loveth his wife loveth himself.

(2) The husband is to be joined unto his wife (v. 31).

When the time comes for a man to establish a home, he leaves his father and mother and is joined to his wife. This results in the creation of the new unity of society.

2. The wife (Eph. 5:22-24).

She is to be subject to her own husband. This is not an arbitrary matter, but it is according to the divine arrangement. It is to be "as unto the Lord." It is important to inquire as to what kind of subjection is enjoined. In order to understand this, we must grasp the figure which the apostle introduces of Christ and the church. Christ's loving the church is without ulterior motive, as true love "seeketh not its own." Since Christ gave Himself for the church, He thus lifted the church into union with Himself and became to it Lord in the power of His love. The church responds to this love by lovingly recognizing the Lordship of Christ. Just as the church graciously comes under the guidance and direction of Jesus Christ does the wife respond to the love of her husband. Headship of the man is the divine order. Headship never suggests "boss-ship" nor governorship. Observe with reference to this subjection—

(a) The motive (v. 22). "As unto the Lord."

(b) The ground (v. 23). "The husband is the head of the wife."

(c) The extent of (v. 24). "In everything."

3. The children (6:1-3).

The divine purpose in the union of the male and the female in the bonds of holy wedlock is the propagation of the race. When God pronounced His benediction upon the first pair He said, "Be fruitful and multiply."

(1) Obedience to parents (v. 1).

The ground of this obedience is the fact that the parents stand in the place of God to the child.

(2) Honor the parents (v. 2).

Obedience to parents is limited to the period of immaturity. When the children take their place in the establishment of new units in society they are no longer under obligation to obey their parents. Two gracious promises are attached to this commandment, that it may be well with thee and that thou mayest live long on the earth.

4. The parents (v. 4). Doubtless the word "fathers" was intended to be inclusive of the "mothers."

(1) Provoke not your children to wrath.

This doubtless means that in the exercise of parental authority there should be avoidance of irritation.

(2) To bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.

Nurture doubtless means to educate and admonition means discipline.

TELLS TALES
OUT OF SCHOOL*Claims the Wife of President Harding Had Badly Controlled Temper.In the March issue of the Cosmopolitan magazine Mrs. Elizabeth Jaffray, former housekeeper of the White House, refers to Mrs. Harding as an "unpolished emerald," with a "temper that was almost uncontrollable at times.""I genuinely liked Mrs. Harding, but I must honestly say that at times she had about as little reserve as any grown person I ever met.""On the other hand," writes Mrs.
Jaffray, "Mrs. Harding could be as kind and sweet as she was, sometimes unreasonable."Near the end of the Wilson regime Mrs. Wilson invited Mrs. Harding to the White House for tea. Mrs. Jaffray was summoned."Both Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Harding were standing up when I entered and I noticed that Mrs. Wilson's face was flushed as I had never seen it before," writes Mrs. Jaffray. "It was evident that an unpleasant scene had just taken place.""Mrs. Harding, this is Mrs. Jaffray," Mrs. Wilson said, and then, without a word of goodbye, turned and left the room."Altho Mrs. Harding had another housekeeper in mind, she decided to continue Mrs. Jaffray in that capacity.
Mrs. Jaffray writes:"President Harding was the only man during the four administrations that I lived at the White House who really drank enough to speak of. Mr.
Taft during his term as president was a teetotaler. Mr. Wilson drank very little, and then only at formal dinners when it was almost impossible for the president of the United States not to touch his champagne.""With the coming of national prohibition in 1919, the custom of serving wine at state dinners was of course abolished. From the day of the amendment no liquor was served at the White House at official or semi-official or even private dinners.""President Harding, however, on occasions when he entertained his most intimate men friends would serve a cocktail in the library or in his library before going down to luncheon or dinner. It was also President Harding's habit when he entertained men at dinner to retire often after dinner to the library or study and there play cards and have Scotch and soda served.""Mrs. Harding was often ill during 1922 and 1923. She was a strange woman, who, hard as she tried, could never quite accustom herself to the greatness and importance of her position. I think she had more beautiful clothes and spent more money for her clothes than any first lady of the land during the years I was in the White House, but it was a difficult role for her.""I want to be careful that I don't give the wrong impression about Mrs.
Harding. If a fine but rather rough and old-fashioned type of man might be called an 'uncut diamond,' I think a woman like Mrs. Harding might be called an 'unpolished emerald.'""She did have a badly controlled temper. She was a trifle unconventional and unusual. But she was honest, fearless, and in her own way very kindly, and she tried to do what was right."FUNERAL OF W. R. PICKENS.The funeral of W. R. Pickens was held Thursday morning at the St.
Philip's Episcopal church. Rev. David McDonald, pastor of St. John's church
Lancaster, was the officiating minister.
The church was crowded with friends of the deceased, who were present to honor the dead.The choir sang "Face to Face" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."The pallbearers were James Swearingen, Grant Swearingen, Lawrence

ment was in Forest cemetery.The following attended from a distance; Mr. and Mrs. Charle Alt and

AT MEMPHIS DESTROYEDFlames End Career of Kate Adams, Sole Survivor of Type on Lower Mississippi.Memphis, Tenn.—Flames ended the romantic career of the Kate Adams, majestic river steamer here, and removed from the lower Mississippi the last sidewheeler to ply the great stream in southern waters.The "Kate," as she was familiarly called, beloved of river folk and pet of plantation workers along her course, perished as two of her predecessors of the same name before her and left a ruin of twisted metal beams at the water's edge, to mark her final anchorage. The cause of the fire was undetermined. She burned quickly, and some of the crew had narrow escapes. To plantation people, white and negro alike, the Kate was a living creature, whose sonorous whistle, audible as far as twenty miles inland, was the signal of joyous cries. Straightening from their tasks at the sound of the boat's melodious call, the black cotton pickers with grinning faces would shout across the field:
"Yer comes de lovin' Kate!"As the palatial two-stacker, trailing black smoke in twin clouds nosed toward her landing with passengers and cargo, inhabitants of the little river communities would turn out as for a holiday.The Kate was built in 1898 and until 1922 was a mail boat. For 15 years she ran twice a week from Memphis to Arkansas City, and her reputation for clock-like regularity became traditional.In the last few weeks of her service the film producers of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" leased her for use in their movie scenes.The boat was 240 feet long, with a 50-foot beam, and was valued at $125-000, but river experts said she could not be replaced for less than twice that amount. A small part of the loss was covered by insurance.The Kate Adams was owned by the Delta Packet company of Pittsburgh, of which Capt. Tom Reeves is president. Except for two years in service on the Upper Ohio river, which ended early last fall, the steamer was operated on the lower Mississippi and its tributaries. She was built at Jeffersonville, Ind.Girl Handed Paraffin*Nose Seeks $100,000New York.—A nose—well, it's just a nose until it becomes filled with paraffin. Then it is worth $100,000.
That is what Mabel C. Bain, twenty-four years old, an actress, thinks, and she has put her thoughts into the form of a damage suit for that amount against Augustus W. Pratt, Gregory L. Pollock and William Hurley of the Pratt Institution here."These men," Miss Bain says in her complaint, "represented themselves as specialists in plastic surgery and performed an operation on my nose, saying it would be made beautiful. This was done last January."She charges that after the first operation five others were performed, and that during the last paraffin was injected into her nose, which "broke out in bumps and lumps and ridges until I was obliged to obtain the services of a surgeon to operate and remove the paraffin.""I have become sick, sore, nervous, disabled, compelled to endure great pain and suffering, and have had to forego all social intercourse and stay away from business."Prisoner's Own Trunk*Blocks $150,000 PlotNew York.—The solicitude shown for a large trunk of Fifth avenue cuslice with having led to the arrest of Charles Dryden, alleged ringleader in a $150,000 swindle attempt against the Equitable Trust company.Dryden was arrested in San Diego, Calif., on a check forgery after detectives traced his movements by his trunk since he left his temporary home in Belleville, N. J., last November.At one time known as one of the best theatrical painters on Broadway, Dryden is alleged to have stolen two blank checks from the office of the Moredall Realty corporation, owner of the Capitol Theater building, and to have forged them for $76,000 each.Find Cash and Gems in*Safe Bought as JunkSouth Amboy, N. J.—Jewels, securi-

RUN.Los Angeles to New York, a distance of 3559 miles, was recently made by a stock Whippet with the sentational economy record of 43.28 miles per gallon of gasoline. This spectacular run shatters all previous records.The car was driven by Cannon Ball Baker with an official observer from the contest board of the American Automobile association, who made the official check of the run.But this outstanding economy test is only one of the many Whippet advantages. Performances that you never expected in a four cylinder car such as 55 miles per hour in comfort and safety; 5 to 30 miles in 13 seconds four wheel brakes to stop under all conditions and power for all hills are only found in the Whippet.Besides economy and performances this car gives you engine smoothness, flexibility and stamina only to be found in much higher priced cars. In such gruelling test as from Canada to Mexico—from Death Valley to the top of White Mountain—up Pike's Peak without boiling—500 miles at Salem,
New Hampshire in 10 hours and 23 minutes and numerous other tests.The remarkable records that have been established by the Whippet all over the country were possible because the Whippet is a MODERN designed car built for modern requirements.
For those who desire a larger car the Whippet Six is the lowest priced six cylinder car on the market with four-

OLD CITY JAIL EAST FRANKLIN STREET IS GONE
Building Used as a Calaboose and Fire Department 75 Years Ago.

The razing of the old brick structure on east Franklin, opposite the post office, by Mr. O. L. Cartright, has stirred the recollections of Dr. Hartley R. Clarke sufficiently to cause him to take his pen in hand and jot down, a few only of the things which he calls to mind, having a relation to this old building, once the civic hub around which revolved the administration of public affairs. But we will let the doctor tell about it:

The razing of the brick building on East Franklin Street, opposite the post office, during the past week, marks the passing of a once prominent feature in the early days of Circleville. For more than thirty years it was the hub, the civic center of the village, housing as it did, the fire department, mayor's office, council chamber, and city lockup. The fire department was composed of two engines—the Torrent and the Niagara—and a hook and ladder wagon, which were hand-drawn and operated by volunteer companies and among whom was a great rivalry as to which machine would be first at the scene of action, and which would first throw a stream of water when an alarm of fire occurred during the month of May, about 1847, when the roof was burned on a dwelling on South Seoto Street. The house was surrounded by peach trees, which were in full bloom; at the same time a heavy fall of snow was descending. The blazing roof, the pink blossoms, and the feathery snow flakes, produced a weird scene. Note, the weather bureau was given quite as erratic in early days as it is now.

The writer's earliest recollection of an official of the law, was the village marshal—Barnycord by name. He was a stern man, and very severe on youthful disturbers of the peace. Of course, the boys feared and hated him, but usually vented their spleen by hurling derisive epithets at him when they were on the safe side of a high fence, or some distance back in a dark alley. One of their bits of doggerel ran like this—

Oh, Mister Barnycord don't take me;
Take the nigger behind the tree.
He stole a turkey, I stole a goose,
Please, Mr. Barnycord, O turn me loose.

About the middle of the last century, the village fathers decided that the rapid growth and sound prosperity of the place warranted a more commodious and modern public building. They, therefore, passed an ordinance and provided the means for the erection of one. Two of their number, E. C. Clarke and Wm. Doane, were delegated to prepare plans and superintend the construction of the proposed structure, also, to dispose of the old vacated outfit. The result of their efforts is the present City Building, since greatly modernized and improved. When the old calaboose was dismantled, Dr. Clarke possessed himself of the huge key, now on exhibition in the front window of the Circleville Watchman, on west Main street.—Dr. H. R. Clarke in The Watchman.

Housing and Child Health
The larger and more comfortable the family house, all other things being equal, the better chance babies have to live, according to a recently published yearly report on child welfare in England. In one-room dwellings, in Newcastle-on-Tyne, the death rate was 108; in two-room dwellings, 106; in three-rooms, 89; while in those over three rooms, it dropped to 76.

Odd Shingle Substitute
Oscar Lendahl, Seattle, Wash., did not want to buy shingles for his summer cottage, so collected several piles of auto license plates at garages—2,300 all told—and now has a water-tight roof on his cabin. He laid them about 5 inches to the weather in nailing them down, then applied a thick coat of roofing paint.

DARBYVILLE
Mrs. Milton Carpenter entertained Tuesday, February 8, to dinner, Mrs. W. S. Carpenter, Mrs. Christena Hill, Mrs. E. A. Secoy, Mrs. B. C. Carpenter and Miss Mary Darst.
The P. T. A. are preparing to give a play in the near future entitled "How the Story Grew."

Mrs. John Downs and son, Basil, were business visitors in Circleville Monday.

Harry Carpenter, who has been on the sick list is improving.
Dr. E. A. Secoy removed Albert Hill to the hospital in Columbus last week. He is seriously ill. Mrs. Hill remained at the hospital with him.

Adville Hill and Mary Clark of Athens university spent the weekend with their parents here.

Mrs. B. C. Carpenter and daughter, Louise, and Miss Lois Beatty were in Columbus Saturday.

Our basketball teams both boys and girls won over Williamsport Friday night. The girls' score was 14 to 7; boys score 24 to 12.

Chester Downs spent the weekend with his parents.

Mrs. Filmore Riser and children returned home last week after spending three weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hott.

Miss Mildred Beatty, who has been sick is able to be in school again.

AMUSEMENTS

Harold Lloyd, the lovable spectacled laughster, came to town last night in what a capacity audience applauded as the best comedy of the year. Its title? "The Kid Brother." Just read it and read!

"The Kid Brother" is the sort of thing we expect from Lloyd. That is its very unusualness—of plot, gags and action—make it stand out and alone. In a field as crowded as it is large, Harold's friendly face shines out. Truly has he been crowned and truly does he deserve a scepter as the king of comedy.

His latest, in which he receives able support from a company headed by Jobyna Ralston, Ralph Yearsley, Eddie Boland and Walter James, takes place "up in them thar hills." As Harold Hickory, youngest son of the biggest man in town, Lloyd creates a character that's slightly reminiscent of "Grandma's Boy."

The actual story starts when a medicine show comes to town. The whole outfit—strong man, "spieler" and dancing girl—arrive at Sheriff Hickory's for a permit. With father's badge on his chest, Harold, under the soulful appeal of the girl's eyes, signs their document. Then, when Hickory gets home, things start humming. Father insists that if Harold had enough authority to issue a license he'll have to make them leave. Harold, victim of an inferiority complex, starts off. The laughs do too, and they don't stop till the final closeup.

But that's not all! While Harold is endeavoring to stop the performance, the tent catches fire, Sheriff Hickory's money is stolen, the thieves escape, there's a terrible fight aboard an abandoned ship, there are—well, in addition, long Lloyd laughs run thru-out the length of the film.

Why say more? Harold Lloyd's at the Met in his latest Paramount release. If you miss "The Kid Brother" you're kidding yourself; if you see it, you'll have the time of your life.

SICK MEN EARN NOTHING

Take a representative group of six men. Within a year, one of them will be an invalid, a cripple, or dead. You don't think you will be that one. But can you afford to take too much for granted?

Income insurance costs little compared to its benefits. If you don't carry this type of insurance, stop and consider just what it would mean to you if you were the one in six.

Sick men earn nothing. But insurance pays the bill, because it provides a steady revenue while they are incapacitated.

GIRL 11, KILLED BY AUTO, MAN HELD

Columbus, Feb. 8.—Marie Sullivan, 11, rear 342 Parsons Ave., died early today in Grant hospital from injuries received when she was struck by a hit-skip motorist last night at Parsons Ave. and Mound street. She was hurt internally.

Nathan Smith, 53, 601 South Champion Ave., later was arrested by Detectives Huffman and Cabel as the driver of the car. He denied striking the girl and was brought to the city prison for questioning.

Jack Arnold of 677 McAllister Ave., who witnessed the accident, furnished police with license number and description of the car, which, he said, stopped momentarily and then rushed away after the accident.

Will you say it just for the day or through the years to come?

NOW comes the time of year when the telltale stethoscope finds hearts more affluent, when pulses beat with ardency renewed.

And no wonder! For just in the offing is St. Valentine's, the day set apart by the Saint of Hearts for all true lovers . . . filial, fraternal and romantic . . . to play the roles of Romeo and Juliet, or of Darby and Joan.

In such a crisis, adolescent youth seeks an outlet for his swelling emotion in a bit of lacy paper, a red heart or two, a sugary quatrain or sonnet.

But we elderly folk, of twenty and beyond, must find a more lasting and worthy expression of our sentiment.

Fortunately, that's not hard to do. For just 'round the corner is a jeweler, and he deals in valentines of four dimensions . . . Beauty, Utility, Permanence and Value.

Valentines wrought of gold and silver or set with a precious jewel . . . valentines not necessarily expensive yet enduring, to be admired and cherished through the years.

Tokens that link the lovely with the lasting, the precious with the practical . . . a ring . . . a pin . . . perhaps a silver vase . . . or best of all, an Elgin watch.

A gift that will serve the minutes and the hours, and survive the decades. A gift, indeed, that will "say it for a lifetime."

There is no finer gift than an Elgin Watch. Featured in a wide style variety and sold at prices ranging from $15 to $1700.

Little Potatoes
Good for Planting
Avoid Tubers That Are Badly Sprouted.

Plant the small ones and save expense, is the advice of F. A. Krantz of the division of horticulture, University of Minnesota, to potato growers who are beginning to think in terms of seed for next spring.

Mr. Krantz says that whole small potatoes are even better to plant than seed pieces from large tubers, provided they come from vigorous, healthy plants. If planted when weather conditions are unfavorable there is less likelihood of the whole small potato rotting in the ground than there is of the seed pieces cut from large potatoes.

"Growers who have kept up seed plots will be perfectly safe in planting their small, unmarketable stock," says Mr. Krantz. "The small seed potato should be firm in substance, with the first sprouts just beginning to appear, and should be of a minimum weight of two ounces. Badly sprouted small potatoes should not be planted. In a time of high prices like the present growers can make a saving by using their smallest tubers, if properly grown, for this year's seed. But do not increase the acreage."

Fencing Aids Different Fields on Stock Farms
Any farmer who raises stock knows that fencing and subdividing his pasture so he can rotate the pasture gives 25 per cent more feed value to his stock because it eliminates the big percentage of feed that is trampled down. This soon pays for the price of the fence.

There is another gain, however, realized by the farmer who keeps books.

The farmer who has all his fields fenced off not only pastures, but corn, oats and wheat lands is able to turn his stock in these fields during the fall and winter. The stock not only benefits from the food value of the roughage but is at the same time scattering fertilizer on the fields.

One farmer who kept track of his expenses closely said that the saving of labor cost in distributing fertilizer, as well as the smaller amount of commercial fertilizer that he had to buy, more than paid for his fence without counting the other benefits.

This farmer said: "Every farmer pays for a fence whether or not he has it, the only difference being that the farmer who has good fences gets a big return on his investment."

Imported Varieties of Clover Not Recommended
Tests of clover seed on experimental plots at Ontario Parish, in Knox county, Illinois, showed severe winter killing among all imported varieties of clover. Of the Chilean, Rumanian, Hungarian and English clovers more than 75 per cent were dead. The French seed, which is supposed to be fairly hardy in Illinois had less than a 10 per cent stand, and of the Italian there was hardly a plant remaining. The most successful stands were from seed from Ohio, Michigan, Canada and Idaho, in the order named.

Under present national regulations all of these foreign clovers are stained red so that the purchaser may recognize them immediately and be warned that they are not satisfactory for planting in this country.

Tender and Palatable Meat Is Most Desirable
If a farmer will fatten his heifers and kill and dress them properly he will have very tender and palatable meat. A quick finish is desirable because it is economical, but beef that is fattened slowly may be very good too.

Care should be taken not to excite the animal before killing, as this adversely affects the quality of the meat. The carcass should hang for at least a week of ten days before using, in order to get the best flavor.

Some people think that the best flavored beef is from mature beasts, but meat from yearlings properly fattened, killed, dressed, ripened and properly cooked is very good.

Satisfactory Ration
A simple mixture comprised of 40 parts corn and cob meal, 35 parts ground oats and approximately 25 parts of oil meal makes a very satisfactory ration where the cows have good legume roughage. If the cows are getting silage many people prefer to feed cotton seed meal instead of the linseed meal, as the silage and legume hay are both somewhat laxative and therefore the laxative qualities of the linseed meal are not so badly needed. Whichever combination is used, however, will be found an ideal feed for dairy cattle.

When Sheep Eat Wool
Did you ever find that your sheep eat wool? Not very long ago a farmer found that a number of his sheep died. So he examined one of them and found wool in its digestive organs. The sheep ate wool because the rations fed were lacking in certain elements. A mixture, made as follows, solved the problem: Mix 10 pounds of common salt, 2½ pounds of steamed bone meal, 1½ pounds of air-slaked lime and ¼ pound of iron sulphate. Keep this mixture before the sheep in boxes.

CHILLICOTHE

FLOW OF PRISON

Committee To Confer With U. S. Officials on Sending Prisoners To Former Camp.

Ohio may solve its crowded penitentiary problem by making use of the Camp Sherman site at Chillicothe for a temporary prison.

A committee representing the governor, the house and the senate was appointed yesterday to confer with federal prison officials there, in an effort to establish an overflow prison of parts of Camp Sherman not in use by the government.

Executive Secretary James W. Hoffman represents Governor Donahey. Senate members of the committee are Paul M. Herbert of Franklin county and Robert Rohe of Seneca county.

If the plan to make use of Camp Sherman is approved it is considered likely barracks used during the war will be reconditioned and surrounded with a barbed wire enclosure.

A. H. Connor, superintendent of federal prisons, is in Chillicothe.

THE MAN WITH THE HOE SAYS--

There are a number of beautiful new gladioli on the market this year. The lists are overwhelming in their temptations. The old standards should not be neglected for big displays. Order early, for the glad market is an early one. Late orders will be able to get only second sized bulbs in many cases.

Glass substitutes make a hotbed or cold frame much more economical. There are a number on the market.

Try some dahlias from seed this year. The dwarf types can be grown outdoors with the zinnias and grow as easily, starting to bloom in August.

Many people often have wondered why summer squashes were grown. It has been discovered that they possess an unusual quantity of vitamins and are particularly valuable for children backward in development. There is one good reason for ordering summer squash seed if you never did before.

There are new lettuces in the catalogues this year advertised as "sure heading"—good news for gardeners. They are surer than the old kinds but must have reasonable treatment to justify the claim.

Sow spinach seed any day when the snow is off the ground and it has thawed enough to make it stick when it lights. You will get an extra early start.

The Admonition of Age
Dick possessed a tennis racquet, which, though it had been classed as "junk" by an older sister, was the envy of the youngsters of the neighborhood. The neighborhood gang was assembled in the back yard one day and little Mary, five, grabbed the tennis racquet and said: "Throw the ball, Richard, and I'll bat it."

Nancy, her sister, and the senior by three years, felt it necessary to correct little Mary, so she yelled: "You don't say bat it, silly, say tennis it!"

SENATE DROPS
SCHOOL MEASURE

Columbus, Feb. 8.—Considerable opposition to the granting of state aid to Wilmington college in establishment of a teachers' training department, developed on the floor of the senate, Tuesday afternoon, when the measure came up for passage, and after a hot fight, the bill was defeated.

Several senators believed that appropriation of funds to assist a denominational school in training teachers would set a bad precedent, while others declared there was a need for such assistance in teacher training.

Earlier in the afternoon, the senate passed the Aigler corporation law recodification bill, without a dissenting vote.

A number of bills were introduced, one by Senator Gillen, providing for transfer of control of state schools for the blind and deaf to the department of education.

SERVICE
Among the delights of summer auto touring not the least—to the woman, at any rate, is noting the unusual signs which one sees along the roadside, especially if the ride gets away from the beaten path.
On a recent trip to central Vermont the two signs that amused the woman most were the following:
"Fresh eggs laid while you wait."
"This road leads to Lake Arlington—drive in."—New York Sun.

Sentimental Convenience
"If I ever fall in love again," said Miss Cayenne, "I'll fasten my affections to a motion-picture star."
"How extraordinary!"
"Not at all. It enables you for a small fee to observe the features of the beloved one at your convenience, without being bored by his conversation."—Washington Star.

Facing Opposition
"A statesman must always be prepared for opposition."
"Of course," answered Senator Sorghum. "When I hint that I may retire from office, I am invariably prepared to be contradicted."—Washington Star.

Emphasis on "Had To"
"If you had it to do over again, would you marry me, dear?" asked Mrs. Brown.
"Of course," answered her brute of a husband. —"If I had to do it over again."

The Difference
"Ernie, dear! Don't go too far in the water!"
"But, look, daddy's out a long way."
"I know, dear, but your father's insured."—Humorist.

Lazy Luke
"I'd like to go fishing, but my wife doesn't care about it."
"Go alone."
"Oh, I don't like to row."

CHECK-BOOK RESTRAINT

Mr. Nuvorich—Charles is more of a spendthrift than ever! How can I restrain him?
Mrs. Nuvorich (and Ignorant)—Why not try giving him a check book, my dear?

Hello Hetties
The girls up at Central Keep busy all day,
Whenever I see them
They're plugging away.

Slow for Nell
"Have you heard about Nell's eloping with her father's handsome French chauffeur?"
"Mercy, No!"
"Neither have I. I wonder what's delaying her."

LIVED IN A GLASSHOUSE

The Florist—You're a liar, sir! What have you to say to that?
Other Man—Only this—people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones.

Pitiable
For sheer hard luck
This cove the wreath—
Corn on the cob
And no front teeth.

His Affliction
Hostess—You can't imagine how bad my husband's eyesight is getting. Only today he mistook me for the nursemaid.
Friend—And she's such a pretty girl, too.

Seniors
"I'm going to work as a salesman."
"Well, you'd make good at it if you sell gum or cough drops."
"Why?"
"You always take one's breath away."

Modern
Blks—So your daughter has taken up futurist painting?
Jones—Yes, this morning she came downstairs with one blue cheek, one pink cheek, a rouged upper lip, inverted eyebrows and a green ear.

Some Lad!
Clara—So George is in love with you! The poor fish!
Mae—Well, I wish he was a devil-fish, so he'd have six more arms, that's all!

WOMAN'S

Desire For Early Marriage Is Decreasing.

The difference in the attitudes toward marriage held by the woman of today and the woman of so short a time ago as pre-war days is brought out by Rosita Forbes, the famous woman explorer and writer, in an article in this week's Liberty. "Before the war, when I was eighteen," the writer explains, "the only way a girl could gain experience of anything was by marriage. If she had an experimental mind, she was bound to wed the first presentable person who proposed to her as the only means of escape from the barriers that crushed her. In those days man was an achievement. Even I can remember the feeling of warm satisfaction when Mr. Pre-War Forty-two showed an inclination to lay at the feet of Miss Eighteen the ashes of his past and the embers of his desire to settle down.

"Today," the writer points out in contrast, "my twenty-year-old sister has her own friends and her own car, her own money that makes her independent, and a wealth of interests—political, social, and masculine. She is as mobile as her ideas and as little concerned with conventions as a cuckoo with its eggs."

The MASTERPIECE of the Oldest Washer Manufacturer

NEARLY fifty years of experimenting and study, backed by unlimited resources, have produced this Model E-25 (Electric) Voss Floto-Plane Washer—and a new era in home laundering.

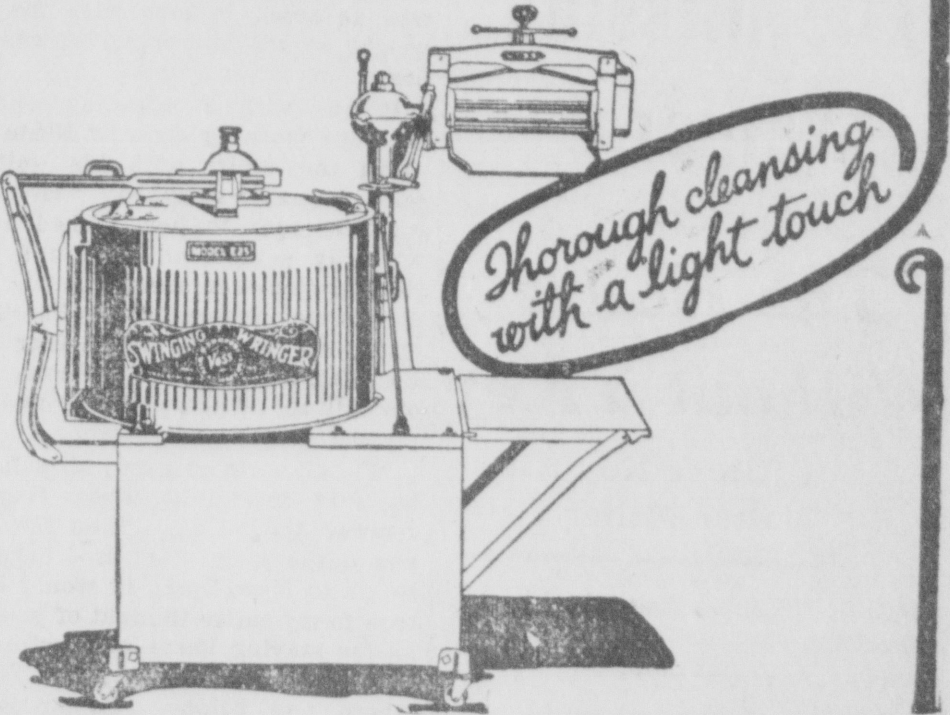

20% added efficiency is the result of this "Thorough Cleansing with a Light Touch." The dirt is out, but all the wear is left in.

Model E-25 Electric—compactly built, with mechanism enclosed. Heavy, self-draining copper tub—one-piece cast-aluminum lid. Four-position self-locking wringer with 12-inch cushion rolls. Easily controlled. Special motor—simple flatbelt drive—cut-gear transmission. Folding bench.

The Floto-Plane Agitator takes advantage of the tendency of clothes to rise close to surface of water. At this point it functions—where suds are thickest—with no roughing of clothes. It is the water-level agitator that makes washing easier on clothes, gets them cleaner, in less time.

Come in and let us demonstrate this amazing washer to you.

Floto-Plane Your Clothes!

Thought for Today

"A fool is wise in his own conceit," and a hypocrite thinks he is wise in his own deceit.

Janice of Lost River

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

WHEN Janice Makepeace received a letter from her aunt offering her a bit of pocket money in return for serving in her tearoom on the Lost River highway, Janice very nearly jumped for joy. She did not feel that she could afford a vacation without pay and here was an opportunity to go to the mountains and earn money at the same time. She sat down immediately and wrote a letter of acceptance and gratitude so mingled that when her Aunt Bertha read it she smiled.

"Poor Janice," she said to herself, "if the girl thinks this is a gay resort, she's in for a sad disappointment."

And Janice was disappointed, for Aunt Bertha's tearoom was literally in a wilderness.

Aunt Bertha was a woman who had known a troubled life and undoubtedly she was ready for the peace and comfort brought by solitude, but Janice was young and naturally yearned for the bright lights and crowds to which she had been accustomed. Or for other company than an elderly aunt, two tame porcupines and a bear cub chained to a stake.

Perhaps that was why, after three weeks, Janice was ready for adventure—and mischief—when it arrived in the shape of one Lancelot Neale, a slender young man with tortoiseshell glasses, a portfolio, and a runabout.

He came for sandwiches and stopped to chat with Janice, in whom he immediately saw a resemblance to the title role of his new play. Accordingly, he sought out Aunt Bertha and asked permission to remain for a few days to study her niece. "It is rare to find a girl so unspoiled and unspiced by the effect of our hectic civilization," he said.

Aunt Bertha thought him a very ingenious young man. Nor did she consider it necessary to tell him that Janice was, for most of the year, typist in a broker's office on Broadway. Janice could do as she pleased.

As a matter of fact, Janice would probably not have begun deceiving the young man, had it not been for a certain unfortunate sentence. "You interest me, if I may be personal, Miss Makepeace," he told her, "by those very qualities which life in a city would inevitably tarnish and destroy. There is a freshness of soul, a dewy innocence of your eyes—forgive me, but somehow, when I see you, I see you in terms of my heroine."

And Janice nearly took every advantage of him. "Is it true," she would ask naively, "that in New York, after the play, the people do not go home, but go out to eat and dance until the small hours of the morning? How glorious that would be!" And she would clasp her hands in apparent ecstasy.

"It would spoil you utterly," Lancelot would say. And Janice would be tempted to further pretenses.

"I wouldn't play with the boy," advised Aunt Bertha one day. "He has much to learn, but he admires you and might come to feel for you an emotion you did not reciprocate."

Lancelot stayed on. Some days he worked on his play. Some days he threw it restlessly aside and waited until Janice was free for a walk to the hilltop behind the house. There they would sit while Janice, careful to keep any tell-tale allusions out of her conversation, would draw the man on to tell about life in what he called "the big city." She was realizing that she had put herself in the same predicament as the man who had hold of the bull's tail. She was anxious to escape without knowing just how she could do so. What had now threatened to interfere with all her future happiness, for what Janice hesitated to admit to her aunt, she freely confessed to herself. Namely, that she was as much in love with the play-wright as she suspected he was with her.

It was with a sickening sensation that one morning she saw Neale come down the stairs with his suitcases packed and strapped. He came straight over to her, looked at her wistfully a moment without a word, then gripped her slender hand. "I've got to go, Janice," he said, "and I ought to go without another word. But, yes, hang it, if you'll come up to our hilltop, I'll tell you why and what a cad I am."

"I'm all sorts of a cur, Miss Janice," he said miserably when they had reached the hilltop. "You see, I love you desperately. But if I asked you to go to New York, it would be untrue to my entire thought of you. And as for staying here—even with you—I shudder at the thought! You are where you belong. To uproot you would be a crime. But when one has lived in New York, one never gets over the love for—"

"—the gay crowds pouring out along Broadway, the lights across the river from a seat on the Drive, even the noisy, deafening clang of the L over one's head, the top-heavy Fifth avenue busses, homely as sin, the—"

Janice was brought back to earth by Lancelot's grip of her shoulder.

"You—you fraud!" seemed all he could say.

"Yes," said Janice, meekly. "I'm what the big city's made me. However, here's to it!" And she wafted a kiss which Lancelot caught for himself.

GENEVA M. BAIN SHOWS LEAK IN FAMILY "SOCK"

Selling Wheat at $1.30 and Buying It Back at a Cent an Ounce.

Farmers are selling wheat at about $1.30 a bushel and buying it back as packaged breakfast cereal at one cent an ounce, almost $10 a bushel, Geneva M. Bane, home management specialist at the Ohio State university, points out in summarizing the household accounts for co-operators for the past year.

This exchange for processing the wheat is one of the big leaks in farm family expenditures. The whole grain of wheat prepared in the same way as oatmeal tastes well and is recognized as one of the best health foods. Whole wheat contains about seven times as much of the essential body salts as white flour or the cereals from which the bran and germ have been removed.

One lady, Miss Bane reports, prepared the whole wheat as cereal during the winter when the stove was in use the greater part of the time for heating the kitchen. During the summer months breakfast was quickly prepared without heating up the kitchen by warming the cereal on an oil burning range.

Miss Bane pointed out two other weak spots in the family "sock." They are the unclassified expenditures and the failure to make the farm garden do its full duty in supplying the family table.

People do not realize how much money they spend every year for chewing gum, soft drinks, sodas and tobacco until they keep accurate account of them. The vegetables that could be grown in a well managed farm garden would supply the table with them, fresh or canned and from root storage cellars, eight or nine months a year.

PARKS RUSH PUBLISHER OF ATLANTA LIFE

Held For Contempt of Court, Claims Liquor Served at Banquet.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 8.—Parks Rusk, publisher of Atlanta Life, a weekly newspaper which first published the charges that liquor was served at the Atlanta County Co-operative club banquet here Jan. 17, was ordered today to appear before Judge E. D. Thomas next Saturday to answer contempt charges preferred by the grand jury.

Solicitor John A. Berkin in his petition for contempt charges, said that Rusk had declined to answer questions propounded by the grand jury investigating the banquet in honor of Carl H. Langnecht, of Kansas City, international president. Rusk in his paper charged that whisky was served at the party and that it was climaxed by a "bath tub scene" with a little negro girl taking the principal role.

The Dinkler hotels, a corporation; M. B. Petty, hotel detective, and two negro waiters, all of the Ansley hotel, where the party was held, have been indicted on charges of violating the prohibition law and indictments charging perjury were returned against the negro waiters.

Placing the Blame

"If I hadn't taken your good advice—"

"But I merely told you to use your own judgment."

"Exactly. That's the advice I took, and now I'm in a hole."

WASHINGTON FROWNS ON PROPAGANDA

Initiated by the League of Nations to Make Shanghai a Free Port.

Efforts to bring the League of Nations into the Chinese dispute were coldly received in Washington Thursday.

The United States government will not support the informal proposal, put out allegedly as a feeler in Peking and London, that Shanghai be made a free port or zone like Danzig, under the league.

The native city of Shanghai is Chinese territory and this government would either passively or actively support the Chinese in their attempt to keep control of it. Temporary neutralization of the international settlement at Shanghai is held to be a matter arranged with the Chinese rather than with the league.

A second feeler emanating from Geneva, that the United States call a nine-power Chinese conference under league auspices, aroused no enthusiasm in Washington.

WOULD YOU SIGN THE FOLLOWING AGREEMENT?

"I hereby guarantee to pay for any injuries that my automobile may cause and for which I am legally liable, whether it be a man's property, real or personal, regardless of whether I am driving it or even in the car at the time of the accident."

In addition to this, I agree to pay all hospital bills, doctor bills, nurse bills, cost of judicial proceedings, lawyer fees and any other cost or expense, as well as any judgment regardless of amount that grows out of any injury for which I am legally liable, caused by my car.

As a guarantee to the faithful performance of this contract, I pledge all real estate, chattles and personal property of any kind, which I now have or which I may hereafter acquire, accumulate or possess."

In effect the above agreement is what you sign when you become the owner of an automobile, unless you are protected by a Public Liability and Property Damage Insurance Contract. The cost is small, the hazard so great; are you willing to take a chance?
